

Lunch at Rainbow Bakery

The boys decided to have lunch together at Rainbow Bakery because Mrs. Lompstropf has also started another menu of delicatessen, consisting of egg croquettes, Teriyaki (Japanese-styled fried chicken), and sandwiches.

Here each of the boys has chosen what they think would be best for them at the moment: Cinnamon Donut with milk tea for Gamba, chocolate donut and hot chocolate for Fred, and Teriyaki with French fries, and milk for Fred.

At the bakery, there is also Sally having homemade lunch prepared by Mathilda. It is comprised of white rice with a Japanese plum on top, egg rolls, pickles, and hot green tea. Sally has also bought a piece of egg croquette and mini muffin for desserts.

Sally thinks that this bakery is cozy and clean with lots of delicious food freshly made by trustful Mrs. Lompstropf with healthy ingredients and her superb recipes passed down onto her from generation to generation .

The lunch is delicious, especially after her morning working at the Candy Floss and Popcorn carts. She is also thankful to Mathilda for the enjoyable lunch and above all, her caring and consideration.

Lunch at Rainbow Bakery

The potato croquettes at Rainbow bakery are the latest thriving arrival that has quickly gained the number one popularity from customers.

Once tasted, you will come back for more because of its nice crunchiness, the mixed texture of softness of boiled egg inside and of ruggedness of the fried potato wrapped in crispy batter. One egg croquette will satisfy your hunger and enliven your dejected or weary your spirit at $1.50 per piece and $5.00 for 6 pieces.

Anika, who also contributes her cooking talent to the making of this sensational croquette, has brought the house the samples thereof to share with all at home.

The responses are, not surprisingly, applauding. Mary and Mathilda took it to their liking almost instantly as they had a bite of the croquette. Also, the teryaki was endeared to all by its savvy and light taste with sweet aroma which is reminiscent of honest-to-goodness country food that all of them love so much.

So the newest additions of both Teriyaki and Egg Croquett to the business are deemed favorable to customers and profitable to the owners. Both will be content therewith with beneficial consequences to all.
